Comments:

For the past 5 years I have been involved in the research and application of alternative therapies. My career in the healing side has taken a few different turns, as I found that the hands on healing approach was not getting to the core of the issues.

I later became involved in the mind and its influence over the body and how one can through a positive frame of mind do wonders for themselves; however this too proved to be ineffective as people would find it quite an effort to break old mind patterns. My journey continued in other avenues in search for a way to remove the core issues effecting humans as a whole.

I then came across and have been practising TRE for 6 months with some great results. This seems to be what I have been looking for, the process required to shift these core issues and thus allow one to recover from them.

I am sure that as time progresses and our understanding increases that we will be able to more with our healing and in turn assist others in the process.
